LOSS OF THE SCHILLER.

The following additional particulars of the disaster have been received: A heavy fog prevented observations on the Schiller since Tuesday. The engines were put at half speed, and sail reduced at 9 o'clock on Friday night. At 10 o'clock the same night the ship struck the ledge. A great panic prevailed. Captain Thomas is highly praised for his conduct during the terrible scenes which followed. Two boats were filled with men, who refused to come out of them. The Captain fired his revolver over their heads to drive them out, and then fired at them, but without effect. Afterwards, the ship was all on board these boats perished. The tackle at their sterns was released too soon, leaving them suspended by the bows. Three boats got away; one, a life-boat, was so badly injured that she sunk, and eleven of the people on board were rescued by the other fog lifted an hour after the ship struck and the lights were plainly visible. Two of the boats on the steamer were crushed by the falling of the funnel. Rockets and guns were fired from the steamer till the powder became wet. The deck, was crowded with people, was swept away. At 2 a. m., the Captain gathered some of the survivors on the bridge, but all were gradually swept away by the flood tide, which took the doctor and the Captain. The last rigging which remained above water was crowded with passengers and crew all night. The mainmast fell at 7:30 a. m., and being of iron, sunk, with all on it. The foremast gave way soon after. The life boats saved the lives of some who had drifted miles away. One man was rescued after being in the water ten hours. Two boats arrived from St. Agnes a short time be fore the masts fell, but they were unable to approach the steamer on account of the shoals; they picked up stragglers in the water. The passengers say Captain Thomas left the bridge at 3 a. m., to as-sist those on the deck, and when he reached the deck he was swept away by not abed for five nights previous to the disaster. The sea began to break over the vessel half an hour after she struck, the laws allowing these seizures and for The survivors who were landed at Tresco escaped in the Schiller's iron boats.
